Musical Ecologies features compositions that were influenced by or designed from patterns found in the natural world. Each work on the program treats pitch, rhythm, and timbre as organic matter that is then used to “grow” a composition. The programmed works by Jonathan Bailey Holland, Anna Thorvaldsdottir, Jerod Impichchaachaaha Tate, Felicity Wilcox and commissioned composer Ken Steen offer music from around the world that embodies the science, beauty, and wonder of the natural world.

Featuring exceptional performances by these members of the Network for New Music Ensemble:

Susanna Loewy – alto flute

Paul R. Demers – clarinet

Thomas Kraines – cello

Ken Steen – media/electronics

Hirono Oka – violin

Burchard Tang – viola

Thomas Schuttenhelm – electric guitar
